Hello again:

I pulled these dicamba comment files from the backend in FDMS since regulations.gov isn't cooperating.

Notes that for the CFS document, this is only the pages publicly displayed on regulations.gov, not the pages that were deemed restricted. FDMS contains those as separate files, like so:

EPA-HQ-OPP-2020-0492-0012

Document Details	Optional Details	Submitter Info	Attachments(4)	Records
Order	Title	Posting Restrictions	Views
1	2020 CFS Comments and attachments	No restrictions

3	374-393 Pages COPYRIGHT MATERIAL from EPA-HQ-OPP-2020-0492-DRAFT-0016	Restrict all
4	706-717 Pages COPYRIGHT MATERIAL from EPA-HQ-OPP-2020-0492-DRAFT-0016	Restrict all

Subject: RE: dicamba docket - comments

Ugh, the beta version of regulations.gov they are demoing today seems to be messing it up for me as well, but the comments are there in the system. The beta version registers that the three comment documents exist but I can't see a way to directly access them (screenshot 1), only the 10 supporting documents, which are different. But once you do get in (screenshot 2 – from yesterday), you can see that the posting date for all three files is 11/24/2020 and the document names are: EPA-HQ-OPP-2020-0492-0011, EPA-HQ-OPP-2020-0492-0012, and EPA-HQ-OPP-2020-0492-0013.

Screenshot 1: Beta version of regulations.gov acknowledges that there were three comments.

I'm on the docket too and the document is not there and we need it for a paper we are writing for the GC. Please check into this for us. Thanks

In the meantime, please send us the pdf of all the comments. We need to check something right now.

Maybe I'm doing something wrong, but I don't see the comments via that link.

Hi Michele:

You and Scott may have already seen this while I was out last week, but here is the direct link to the dicamba comments on regulations.gov. They are in the comments rather than the supporting documents section.

Hi Michele. Sarah Meadows checked with the docket staff this morning on this. They said that the comments will be available to the public on regulations.gov tomorrow.

Thanks,

I still don't see the comments in the docket. Can someone let me know the status of this today?

Thanks
